POLICE PAY-ROLLS MISSING.

POLICE PAY-ROLLS MISSING.

A number of the pay-rolls of the Police Department of Long Island City are missing. The facts leaked out at a protracted session of the Police Board on Thursday night. Commissioner Montell maked a question concerning the certificates outstanding against the department. Commissioner standing against the Board, replied that it was impossible to tell at that moment, as the pay-rolls of the department, from the time Commissioner Montell retired from office, in 1877, up to the month of November, 1880, were missing. Mr. Montell was Police Commissioner under Mayor Datmars, but resigned when Mayor De Bevoise took his seat, in 1877.

The announcement that the vouchers were missing created some excitement among the members of the Board. It was ascertained that the pay-rolls were originally given to the expert accountant employed by the Citizens' Association to examine the accounts of the city. A formal demand was made to him for the return of the books and they were given to Captain Woods, who afterward turned them over to ex-Commissioner Wilhams. The latter states that he returned them to the City Clerk's office. He subsequently endeavored to find them but could not do so. No one in the City Clerk's office is able to tell what has become of the books.

A GAMBLERS' RESORT BROKEN UP.

Yesterday afternoon Anthony Comstock, with Detective Oram and five police officers, visited the third floor of No. 66 Chatham-st., where a game of faro was in progress. The officers were armed with a warrant issued on the complaint of John McQuade, of No. 520 East Thirteenth-st., who says that he lost in the place money belonging to himself and his brother, who is a junk-dealer. The door was found to be heavily barred and a number of blows out with a sledge-hammer failed to burst it open. Finally those inside opened the door. Patrick Hughes, the reputed proprietor, and Hollis Chase and William H. Lewis, dealers, were arrested. About fifteen men who were in the place were not molested. Two faro tables, two "lay-outs," two cue-boxes, three dealers' boxes and about 3,000 chips were serzed and sent to Police Headquarters. The three prisoners were arraigned in the Tombs Police Court and pending examination were almitted to ball in $500 each. A GAMBLERS' RESORT BROKEN UP.

A JEWELLER WHO WAS NOT SWINDLED.

An bonest-looking young man entered Carl Gullberg's jewelry store at No. 64 Montgomery-st., Jersey City, on Thursday morning, and selecting three watches and two chains, valued at $268, requested that they should be delivered to him at No. 155 Lexington-ave, at 6 o'clock in the evening, when he said he would be able to pay for them. Mr. Gullberg agreed to deliver the goods, and in company with his son and Detectives Rogers and Doyle, of the Central Office, proceeded to the house. Mr. Gullberg's son was shown to a small room on the second floor, where he found the young man, who, after examining the goods, said he wished to show them to his uncle and left the room. A moment later he burried out of the front door and fell into the detectives' arms. In the Jefferson Market Police Court yesterday he said his name was Charles Tobin and that his home was in Nova Scotia. He said he had engaged the room in Lexington-ave, only a few hours before his visit to Mr. Gullberg. He pleaded guilty and was held in $1,500 bail for trial. A JEWELLER WHO WAS NOT SWINDLED.

CHARGED BY HIS WIFE WITH STEALING.
Charles A. Brown, of No. 145 East Tweaty-firstst. was arraigned before Justice Patterson in the Essex Market Police Court yesterday on a charge of larceny. The complaint was brought by Frances Rebecca Brown, his wife, who is a stenographic law reporter. They were married in June, 1882, but only lived together until November, when, she said, she was compelled to leave him. In the early part of the present month he got out a writ of replevint to see are certain property in her possession which he claimed as his own, and among other articles took a manuscript book of letters and notes, which Mrs. Brown values at $1,000. The notes were partly in short-hand, and included extracts from Ralph Walton Emerson, and other eminent writers; but a large partion of the manuscript was of her own composition. She declined to say in public what the character of this work was, but she admitted that she had written poetry on many occasions for several journals, especially for The Cincinnati Commercial. She had owned the book for six years previous to her marriage. She had charged her husband, she said, with taking the book, and he acknowledged the fact, refusing, however, to return it. The case was not concluded. CHARGED BY HIS WIFE WITH STEALING.

ROBBING AGNES ELLIOTT OF HER WARD-ROBE.

ROBE.

Hattie E. Anderson is an actress at Wallack's Theatre under the name of Agnes Elliott. She occupies a flat at No. 158 West Fifteenth-st., the rear room of which is occupied by Charles Finnigan, a driver, and his wife, the latter serving as Miss Anderson's maid. Miss Anderson complained to the police on Wednesday that wearing apparel worth about $500 had been stolen from her rooms. Detectives Holers and Kulan arrested Finnigan, who admitted having taken the goods, which were recovered. In the Jefferson Market Police Court yesterday Justice Gardner held Finnigan for trial.

A WOMEN'S LODGING-HOUSE.

A meeting of the managers of the Woman's odging House and Restaurant, which is seen to be A meeting of the managers of the Woman's Lodging House and Restaurant which is soon to be opened at No. 207 East Forty-second-st, was held at No. 310 Madison-Ave. yesterday afternoon, Among those present were R. G. Sharp, the Rev. Wilbur F. Watkins, Mrs. W. L. Andrews, Mrs. A. D. Chapin, Mrs. S. T. Hopkins, and Mrs. A. G. Aguew. Mrs. Charles Duggin presided. From the reports of committees it appeared that the building will be ready for occupancy by April 2. This lodging-house is intended for all respectable women who, from any cause, find themselves temporarily homeless but are able to pay a small sum for a comfortable shelter. As there is only one place of the kind in the city, and as the need of such an institution near the Grand Central Depot has long been felt, it is earnestly hoped that the project will be tavorably received, and well supported by those interested in benevolent work. No one will be admitted to the house free, but tickets will be sold to be given out by the buyers. It is expected that the establishment will be nearly self-supporting. The treasurer, Mr. Sharp, reported that the treasury contained $2,087.32.

THE BODY OF JOHN HOWARD PAYNE.

The offin centaining the remains of John Howard Payne lay in state yesterday in the Governor's Room of the City Hall, which was visited by many persons. A wreath of immorrelles insertibed in purple flowers with the words "From a Friend," lay on the ceffin fiel. It was presented by Gabriel Harrison, the coffin lid. It was presented by Gabriel Harrison, a friend of Payne in his younger days, and his biographer. Soon after 3 o'clock Gilmore's Band appeared on the balcony of the City Hall and played several pieces of music, among them "Home, Sweet Home," "The Lost Chord," "Nearer, My God, to Thee," "The Star-Spangled Banner" and "Rest, Spirit, Rest," At 4 p. m. a hearse drawn by four white horses, and followed by half adozen carriages, drew up in front of the City Hall. The coffin was borne to the hearse in the presence of the Mayor, most of the members of the Board of Aldermen, several of the heads of departments, and a large throng, who uncovered their heads as the coffin came in view. The committee and others who were to accompany the remains to Washington entered the carriages, and the cortege took its way down Broadway to the radway ferry. The special car containway to the railway ferry. The special car containing the party in charge of the remains was furnished by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company free of

A HEBREW HOME FOR THE AGED.

The dedication of the new Home for Aged and Infirm Hebrews in One-hundred and-sixthest, west of Ninth-ave., took place yesterday at 11:30 a. m. at the synagozue, which is in the building. The ceremony was begun by the formal presentation of the keys to the president, Charles L. Bernheim, by the chair an of the Building Committee, S. Rossin, who made a brief speech. The president made a few remarks complimenting the Building Committee upon the able manner in which its work had been executed. After the singing of a psalm the Rev. Henry S. Jacobs delivered a brief address. His closing remarks were: "Here in America Jew and Gentile work side by side, and in the name of the God of the Universe. We dedicate this home in the name of charity and benevolence." The Rev. Dr. Gottheil then gave the closing address, in English, aliuding briefly to John Howard Payne.

After the ceremonies the guests, to the number of about 300, partook of refreshments, and inspected the new Home. The building is large and has three steries, being so constructed that, if necessary, two more may be added. It has accommodations for 150 patients, there being now 100 mmates. Among those present were Isidor and Simon Wormser, thyman Blum, Henry S. Ailen, Joseph Scholle, S. D. R. senbaum and Bacherach. The cost of the new Home was $190,000, $100,000 of which has been raised by subscription and $50,000 by a loan. A HEBREW HOME FOR THE AGED.

COMMISSIONER ULRICH'S PROTEST.

COMMISSIONER ULRICH'S PROTEST.

Following the verbal protest made on Thursday against the Finance Committee of the Board of Emigration using any portion of the $38,300 received from the State Controller to pay employes or other creditors until a debt of $26,000 to the Federal Treasury had been settled, Commissioner Ulrich filed a written protest yesterday. President Hurbut received the protest and sent it to Mr Forrest, chairman of the Finance Committee, and ordered that only the February sataries to employees should be paid from the State money.

Mr. Hurbut said to a Tribune reporter: "As our regular meeting occurs on thursday next, I did not think it necessary to call a special meeting. However, I shall submit Mr. Ulrich's protest to counsel, and if it is tenable then I will call a meeting as he suggests. Many of our employees were really suffering because of the delay in receiving their pay, and Mr. Callahan, one of our clerks, came to me yesterday and said that he had nothing in his house to eat. Their needs have been temporarily relieved by good friends."

A DEATH AT BARNUM'S.

A DEATH AT BARNUM'S.

The extensive preparations now making at the Madison Square Garden to hail the advent of the greatest show on this mundane sphere suffered a sudden and heart-rending interruption on Tuesday at noon. The army of carpenters dropped hammers and tacks; fair dames and crested knights stopped short in the act of jumping through paper-covered hoops; the trained stallions sullenly chewed their bits; and those who rake the sawdust rested on the rake-handles and wined away a tear. The cold hand of death had crept into the Fourth-ave, entrance of the Garden and taken away a pachyderm. The rhinoceros, or as he is known at the circus, the "rhinoceros unicornis," in contradistinction to him of the two horns, for rhinoceroses differ from each other even as stars in glory, had suddenly passed away. It had not even been whispered that he was not well, so that his taking off was the more startling. He arose at the usual hour and eat a hearty breakfast, quenching his thirst with eight tanks of well water. Then he lay down for a nap and was shortly afterward snoring healthily. But when his lunchtime came and several wagon-loads of potatoes and other light food were backed up to his cage, the side of which was taken out to admit the lunch, his keeper noticed an unusual paleness of the face and coldness of the extremites. Dropping the potatoes, the man exclaimed: "He is dead?" The keeper was right. He was as dead as Julius Cæsar. Gloom fell on the crowd as they eyed those pachydermatons remains.

It was obvious to all present that an inquest should be held, and as there was plenty of room, it was thought advisable to have all the coroners in this and Kings County sit on the deceased.

The verdier intimated that the cause of death was dropsy, although the spectators were of the opinion that it was membranous croup. The body was taken by twelve men, eight, horses and a circus wagon to the office of a veterinary surgeon in Fifty-fourth-st., where an autopsy was performed. Immediately on the death of the creature M

THEATRICAL PEOPLE FIGHTING.

Yesterday afternoon while C. R. Gardiner, the theatrical manager, sat in the office of Spiess & Smart, dramatic agents, in Union Square, talking to Charles A. Watkins, manager of Ada Gray, Charles Abbott, of J. K. Emmet's company, walked in, and without a word began planting, heavy blows on cardiner's face. He struck several blows before Mr. Spiess and another man who was present could restrain him. Abbott said he had been on the look-out for Gardiner to punish him for "ili-treating a lady."

Mr. Gardiner, when asked as to the origin of the trouble, said that it arose through the discharge of Agnes Herndon, who had been playing in his (Gardiner's company during the early part of the season. "When I discharged her," he said, "she threatened that Abbott would thrash me; but when he struck me I was totally unprepared, and was unaware of his presence until I felt the blow." He did not resent Abbott's blows, he said because he did not have time. He considered, however, that he could not afford to take any more notice of the blow than if he had been kicked by a mule or any other irresponsible animal. Mr. Gardner's face was red but beyond this he showed no bruises.

Mr. Abbott was also seen by a reporter, and in explanation of his conduct said that Gardiner had applied vide epithets to him. Mr. Abbott continued that he would "plug Mr. Gardner every time he opens his mouth to me." He thought he would be arrested, and he expressed his readiness to pay a fine and "whip his man again."

WHAT TO DO IN EMERGENCIES.

"Surgical Emergencies" was the subject of the medical talk to young men in Association Hall last night. The sceaker was Dr. Thomas E. Satter-thwaite. He illustrated his address by diagrams and a manikin. The andience consisted principally of young men. Many imaginary cases of hemorrhage were treated, the doctor showing how bandages should be applied in an emergency before a physicial could be summoned. When the blood came from the stomach or lungs ammonia was recommended. The resuscitation of persons supposed to be drawned was also explained.

Several methods were suggested by which resuscitation could be brought about. The simplest method, the speaker said, was to place the person face downward, with the head lower than the feet, insert one's fingers in the mouth and with the other hand press on the stomach, repeating the operation many times. Instances are recorded where resuscitation has taken place where the person had been in the water for an hour.

THE SUN has advertising space to sell. From its compact form, an advertisement in THE SUN is more readily seen than in the blanket absets, hence a few lines in its columns will serve to attract the widest attention. A five-line accordance ment in THE SUN, costing only two dollars, reaches over half a million readers. This is unquestionably the cheapest and most efficient mode of attaining publicity and procuring customers any where obtainable.
